Disability Services

The College of Law Library is committed to providing all patrons with the best possible access to the facilities, collections, and services. The Library will reasonably augment services for patrons who identify themselves as in need of ADA accommodation. The services are primarily designed to support the College of Law educational mission.

Access

For disabled parking, contact the library Circulation Desk (404-413-9100) in advance of your visit to arrange to use the B Lot (under the Urban Life building) and take the elevator to the first floor (College of Law). The Library complies with Georgia State University guidelines established for ADA access to facilities, including entry and egress routes, restrooms, drinking fountains, furnishings, and signage.

Assistive Technology

Due to the sponsorship of the Office of Disability Services, the Library is able to provide an Assistive Technology Room, including a computer operating Zoomtext and JAWS software, a CCTV, a scanner, and a Braille printer. Library staff are familiar and able to assist with basic operation of the ADA-enhanced equipment. Students seeking in-depth training are encouraged to contact the Office of Disability Services. College of Law students, faculty, and staff have priority for the use of the Assistive Technology room when access is in question.

Services

Patrons requiring assistance retrieving items from the collection or using photocopiers are encouraged to contact the Circulation Desk (404-413-9100) to pre-arrange these services. Patrons requesting orientation, research consultation, or referrals to campus and off-campus resources are encouraged to contact the Reference Desk (404-413-9102) to pre-arrange these services. If your disability is not apparent, please identify yourself as having a disability when you seek assistance.

If you have a question about disability accommodations or would like to request an additional accommodation, please contact the Associate Director for Public Services at 404-413-9142. We will review your request and make any accommodation that we reasonably can, given our budget and staff.
