ABOUT GEORGIA STATE.

Georgia State University is the second largest of Georgia's 80 accredited institutions of higher learning and enrolls some 24,000 students — 10 percent of all students in higher education in the state. The full-time faculty numbers more than 900. The university provides about 50 undergraduate and graduate degree programs in some 250 fields of study through its six colleges —
■ Arts and Sciences
■ Business Administration
■ Education
■ Health Sciences
■ Law
■ Public and Urban Affairs

Each term, some 2,000 course sections are taught day and evening, and students may study full or part time; more than 4,000 degrees are conferred annually.

Beyond its teaching mission, Georgia State is a major research center in the field of business, education and urban affairs, and a rapidly growing research center in the sciences. The university is the seat of more than two dozen centers and institutes for research and education in fields as diverse as anthropology, personnel and employment relations, entrepreneurship, child development, gerontology, hydrogeology, insurance, international business, sports and exercise, and adult literacy.
ABOUT THE CURRICULUM.

The primary purpose of the College of Law is the professional education and training of attorneys for the practice of law. The college offers a program leading to the Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree in both a full-time six-semester program and a part-time nine-semester program. Ninety semester hours are required for graduation. Each student must, as a requirement for the J.D. degree, complete for academic credit at least one substantial legal writing project during his or her upper-class period of study. The same standards of admission and performance are required of students in both programs. Full-time faculty teach the courses in both programs and are assisted by adjunct faculty who have experience in specific areas.

THE JOINT J.D./M.B.A. DEGREE PROGRAM

The College of Law collaborates with the College of Business Administration at Georgia State University to offer a course of study leading to the Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree and the Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.) degree. Essentially this is a program which enables a student to complete the requirements for both degrees in four academic years rather than the conventional five. This is accomplished by allowing previously approved course credit for work satisfactorily completed in the College of Business Administration to count in satisfaction of the 90-hour curriculum required by the College of Law. Conversely, certain law courses may be used to satisfy M.B.A. requirements.
"Private law firm librarians are very fortunate to have available to us the outstanding resources of the GSU Law Library. Countless times the Georgia State Law Library has worked miracles for us. Its collection and service far exceed our expectations on a regular basis."

The Law Library is designed and equipped to meet the demanding research needs of today's law students and faculty members. The library provides comfortable seating at tables and oversized carrels, in group study rooms and casual seating areas. With a collection of more than 125,000 hard-copy volumes and over 100,000 microform equivalent volumes, the library provides research materials in American, British, Canadian and international law. Holding 3,500 serial subscriptions, a large treatise collection, federal documents, and a substantial legal audio and video collection, the library provides the primary and secondary sources needed by students and faculty. The materials in the library are easy to locate by using our online catalog, OLLI, which also accesses materials in other libraries throughout Georgia.

The importance of computer-assisted legal research (CALR) to lawyers and judges is unquestioned. Our computer lab houses 12 computers, eight dedicated terminals for CALR and two laser printers. In order for students to become proficient in the use of WESTLAW and LEXIS, they receive instruction on both systems. Students can access CALR in the computer lab or at home. Besides CALR, students use the computer lab for word processing and CALI, a form of interactive tutorial programs.

Experienced service-oriented librarians staff the reference desk during most of the library's 103 hours of operation each week. In the required course on legal research, students work with the librarians in learning the techniques of efficient legal research.

— EVANS J. PLOWDEN JR.,
WATSON, SPENCE, LOWE AND CHAMBLES, ALBANY, GA.

"I have had the pleasure of seeing the Georgia State Law School from several different perspectives. As president of the State Bar of Georgia, I had the pleasure of working with a number of law school professors who were reporters for several projects the Bar undertook. In that same capacity, I have worked with both Dean Knowles and Dean Girth in various law school projects, and again their professionalism and dedication have been exemplary. Finally, and probably closest to my own heart, my oldest son is a law student at Georgia State. To see that dedication that the professors have inspired in him is gratifying to me as a parent and reinforces my previous respect for the school."

"Georgia State University College of Law has made remarkable strides since it was founded. I have observed the marvelous role it has played in making excellent legal education available to mature and traditional students through its flexible full-time and part-time programs. The Georgia State University College of Law is providing the state of Georgia, Atlanta and the surrounding counties with a valuable service, giving us well trained and qualified personnel to staff our governmental, private and nonprofit sectors."

— THOMAS J. MURPHY, SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE, GEORGIA GENERAL ASSEMBLY
"I appreciate your placement of Georgia State University Law School externs in my office at the Superior Court of Fulton County. They are extraordinarily capable individuals. It is difficult for me to remember that they are law students since they function side-by-side with my law clerk. I admire them for their diligence, resourcefulness and commitment in getting the job done in a challenging environment at the Superior Court, where we are faced with burgeoning caseloads. I look forward to the placement of other Georgia State University externs in my office."

— JUDGE THELMA WYATT CUMMINGS, SUPERIOR COURT, FULTON COUNTY

LAW REVIEW

The Law Review is a legal journal published four times a year by second- and third-year students who have demonstrated outstanding writing and academic skills. An annual review of the Georgia General Assembly's activity is published in the fall issue. This legislative review, known as the Peach Sheets, documents the legislative intent behind significant bills and provides the legal community with an in-depth view of those bills. Additionally, the staff of the Law Review edits and publishes articles written by scholars, practitioners and students. Most recently, the Law Review published the report of the Gender Bias Commission that studied the Georgia judicial system.

Law Review participation provides an intensive educational experience beyond that required to complete the basic law school curriculum by enhancing analytical, organizational and communication skills. These qualities are highly respected by members of the legal community and are regarded as essential to the successful practice of law.

EXTERNSHIPS

The Externship program permits students to be placed in 38 public interest agencies and offices and incorporates a broad range of legal fields, including banking law, criminal prosecution and defense, employment discrimination, environmental law, judicial clerkships, securities regulation and workers' compensation law. The objectives of externships are to train students in lawyering skills, to provide greater insight into the workings of the legal system, to promote the development of a sense of professional responsibility, and to develop the ability of students to learn from their experience.

Externships are available to second- and third-year students on a limited basis and may require completion of specific courses for enrollment. Students may take part in one or two semesters of externship course work. Those selected to participate in the program are assigned to work with designated individuals such as law clerks, judges or staff attorneys, who serve as mentors throughout the externship experience. In addition to exposure to the legal system gained through on-the-job training, students also receive academic credit for this externship. The field experience is further supplemented by an academic component offered at the law school or at the externship site.

Students interested in the externship program should contact the Lawyer Skills Development Office.

TRIAL ADVOCACY

Trial advocacy has several components. The first is a required litigation course in the second year. Students are taught the basic skills of trial work in both large and small lecture groups and receive intensive simulated exercise in the small seminars. Additionally, students may take advanced advocacy seminars in the areas of civil and criminal litigation, but cannot do so without completing the second-year required courses. Thereafter, advanced courses limited to 12 students are simulation-intensive and are designed to further enhance students' trial skills in civil and criminal areas. For example, a seminar course in domestic relations trial skills in the spring of 1993 required family law as a prerequisite.

Finally, our training in trial advocacy offers students an opportunity to become members of the Student Trial Lawyers Association (STLA) and the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers–Student Division (NACDL-GSU). NACDL-GSU is in its first year at Georgia State, but the STLA has been extremely active in participating in various competitions locally and nationally since 1984. The STLA combines the student sections of the American Trial Lawyers Association (ATLA), the American Bar Association (ABA), and the Georgia Trial Lawyers Association at the College of Law. The STLA annually sponsors student advocate teams in the ATLA, the ABA, and the Georgia Intrastate Trial Competitions. Georgia State Mock Trial teams have either won or placed in several of these regional competitions. As a result of the impressive performance of our trial advocacy teams, Georgia State University was identified as having one of the top 16 trial advocacy programs in the country and was invited to the 1989, 1990, 1992 and 1993 National Invitational Mock Trial "Tournament of Champions" competitions. In 1989, a Georgia State student was selected Best Advocate at the NITT competition. In 1990 our team finished fourth and in 1992 we placed second in the nation.
Moot Court

The Moot Court Society consists of second- and third-year students who have distinguished themselves in appellate advocacy and who are interested in achieving excellence in brief writing and oral advocacy. The society competes in numerous national and regional competitions, including the National Moot Court Competition, the Georgia Intrastate Moot Court Competition, the National Trademark Competition, the National Criminal Procedure Competition, the National Information and Privacy Moot Court Competition, the ABA National Appellate Advocacy Competition and the Wagner Cup Labor Law Competition. In addition, members prepare the case, problems and trial briefs for the first-year appellate advocacy course competitions and serve as judges and brief graders in that competition. In its first 10 years, the College of Law has fielded teams that have won the Intrastate Competition, the regional NAAC and National Moot Court Competition, the 1988 National Championship in the National Moot Court Competition sponsored by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the regional round of the National Trademark Moot Court Competition, and the 1990 and 1992 Wagner Cup National Labor Law Competition. Georgia State teams have garnered a dozen first-place finishes, seven second-place finishes and a dozen or more third-place finishes. Many of its teams have earned Best Brief awards and eight of its competition team members were declared Best Oralist in state, regional and national competitions.
“I am enthusiastic about the work of the Tax Clinic of the Georgia State College of Law. The clinic has a well-developed plan of operations, excellent leadership, easy access for clients in the central city, active participation by the law students, and support and cooperation from various groups and agencies to which it relates. The Tax Clinic of Georgia State College of Law is setting a pattern that other law schools over the country will want to follow.”

TAX CLINIC

At the beginning of the fall 1992 semester, the college established a live-client clinic designed to serve low-income individuals who are enmeshed in disputes with the Internal Revenue Service. The cases handled by the Tax Clinic are post-audit matters that usually involve the Appeals Office of the Internal Revenue Service. The clinic also represents individuals in that same group of taxpayers if cases reach the U.S. Tax Court. Authorization has been received from the Internal Revenue Service and the Tax Court for students, under appropriate supervision, to represent taxpayers.

Each semester, approximately 10 to 15 students work in the clinic. They are expected to devote about 10 hours a week to clinic activities. Students’ activities are closely supervised by the clinic director, who is a full-time faculty member, and a supervising attorney. The clinic receives calls from over 150 taxpayers per year and has an inventory of about 60 cases, including several that eventually require conferences with the Internal Revenue Service Appeals Office and a trial before the Tax Court. A procedures manual has been prepared to guide students in the conduct of client interviews, and all dealings with the Internal Revenue Service Appeals Office and trial before the Tax Court.

An advisory committee consisting of several of the leading tax attorneys in Atlanta provides guidance to the clinic. The Southeast Regional Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, the District Director and the District Counsel have all demonstrated strong support for the clinic. The clinic has joined the National Legal Aid and Defenders Association.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS.

The College of Law regards participation in student organizations as an important part of the legal education experience and, for this reason, encourages the creation and activities of a wide variety of student organizations, some traditionally found in law schools, some less common. We are proud of the accomplishments of these student organizations and will continue to support and encourage them.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

The Student Bar Association (SBA) is the student government organization for the College of Law. Each student, upon official enrollment in the college, is automatically a member of the SBA, which includes an Executive Board and an Honor Court. The Executive Board consists of four officers and three representatives from each class—a full-time representative, a part-time representative and a representative-at-large. Elections to the SBA Executive Board occur in spring semester, with the incoming first-year students electing their representatives in October. The Honor Court members are also elected by students. The Student Bar Association provides several services for students, including a coffee service, and sponsors a number of activities during the year.

ACTIVATING AWARENESS FOR CHOICE AND EQUALITY

The goals of Activating Awareness for Choice and Equality are to increase campus and community knowledge of issues that directly affect women, such as equal pay and day care, and to focus on questions of abortion rights and a woman’s right to choose her own alternative. Membership is not restricted to women.
“BLSA members have gone above and beyond the call of duty to remain active in the community despite their demanding academic schedules. During the 1991-92 school year, we participated in many community organizations and projects. BLSA members donated their time to tutor inner-city youth in the Atlanta Public Schools. In addition, we have assisted the Legal Clinic for the Homeless in serving Atlanta’s homeless population and have also served as mentors for the youth of Atlanta in the Butler Street YMCA Black Achievers in Industry Program.”

ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN LAW STUDENTS
The purposes of the Association of Women Law Students are to promote interaction and communication among women law students and practicing attorneys and judges; to foster law student involvement in the community; and to promote and support women’s issues and needs in the field of law. Membership in the association is open to any law student who supports the goals of the organization. As part of its mission, the association sponsors speakers on issues of concern to women in the law and undertakes an ongoing mentoring project.

BLACK LAW STUDENTS ASSOCIATION
The Black Law Students Association (BLSA) is organized to meet the needs and promote the interests of black law students at Georgia State. It conducts formal symposia as well as informal student discussion groups. It provides students with opportunities to meet and share concerns and ideas with black lawyers and black students at other law schools. In an effort to improve opportunities for black law students, BLSA has been involved in recruitment and placement; and, in an effort to improve access to the legal system by Atlanta’s black community, BLSA anticipates developing some community-oriented projects. Membership in this organization is open to any law student who supports the goals and purposes of the organization.

CHRISTIAN LEGAL SOCIETY
The Christian Legal Society seeks to provide a structure for facilitating Christian fellowship and sharing of common concerns among Christian students at the College of Law. The society additionally strives to represent the tenets of Christianity among the student body with respect to modern legal issues, to serve the local community through Christian-oriented legal services, and to provide regular contact between the society’s student members and members in the professional community.

— PAM EVERETT, PRESIDENT, BLACK LAW STUDENTS ASSOCIATION
ENVIRONMENTAL LAW SOCIETY
The Environmental Law Society seeks to provide regular forums to raise awareness on a broad range of environmental issues, to provide practical work experience in the community, to participate with other law schools in Georgia in an Environmental Moot Court Competition, and to organize periodic weekend outings to nearby wilderness areas.

FEDERALIST SOCIETY FOR LAW AND PUBLIC POLICY STUDIES
This is a group of conservatives and libertarians interested in the current state of the legal order. It is founded on the principles that the state exists to preserve freedom, that the separation of governmental powers is central to our Constitution, and that it is emphatically the province and duty of the judiciary to say what the law is, not what it should be. The society seeks both to promote an awareness of these principles and to further their application through its activities.

INTERNATIONAL AND COMPARATIVE LAW SOCIETY
The International and Comparative Law Society exists to generate an awareness of the role and function of international and comparative law in the modern world and to introduce students to the career opportunities available in these fields. The society sponsors monthly programs on matters of current interest in the international community, an annual symposium on critical issues in international and comparative law and, in addition, sponsors participation in the Jessup Moot Court Competition each spring.
JEWISH LAW STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

The Jewish Law Students Association is an organization of law students, faculty and graduates who share an interest in Jewish legal issues and sociopolitical concerns, and in meeting the needs and interests of Jewish law students at Georgia State University. The purpose of the association is to serve as a forum for expression.

LESBIAN AND GAY LAW STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

Established in 1991 to provide a supportive environment for lesbian and gay law students at Georgia State, the Lesbian and Gay Law Students Association encourages personal as well as academic development. It also aims to foster a positive educational environment by providing the student body, faculty and staff with opportunities to increase awareness and understanding of the lesbian and gay community and the legal issues that affect it. The association maintains relationships with gay and gay-sensitive employers to provide a network between students and employers that might not otherwise exist.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF CRIMINAL DEFENSE LAWYERS

This organization encourages law students in their second and third year to participate in a trial advocacy program, which will develop and sharpen their skills as novice trial lawyers. The practice sessions leading up to the competition begin in the fall and continue on an intensive basis until the mock trials begin. The students who will participate in the actual mock competition are chosen as a result of try-out sessions administered by the faculty adviser. The purpose of this organization is to develop the litigation skills of the students through this intensive competition program.
"My legal education provided an important foundation for my establishing a program for the girls in the East Lake Meadows Public Housing Development. I have moved on from Cool Girls to become a community organizer in other low-income communities, and I find that I use the skills I learned at GSU on a daily basis."

THE NATIONAL LAWYERS GUILD
The National Lawyers' Guild is an organization composed of lawyers, law students, jailhouse lawyers and other interested parties. The guild provides legal support to all kinds of struggles for economic, social and political justice in this county. The Georgia State University student chapter brings in prominent national and local practitioners to speak about alternative legal careers and their own work. Past speakers have addressed topics that included researching patterns of racism in Forsyth County, Ga., and training representatives and representing Cuban detainees in the federal penitentiary in Atlanta. The Georgia State chapter is also working with the National Association for Public Interest Law to develop a program of loan forgiveness for students who work in positions as public interest attorneys. In conjunction with the local guild, the Georgia State chapter sponsors regional conferences and seminars on various topics.

PUBLIC INTEREST LAW ASSOCIATION
This organization is dedicated to encouraging law students to pursue careers in public interest law. The organization is open to all College of Law students. Each year, the group sponsors several programs and panel discussions on such careers. In addition, PILA awards an annual fellowship to supplement the pay of one or more law students who have obtained summer employment in public interest law. These awards are funded by donations from students and faculty.

STUDENT TRIAL LAWYERS ASSOCIATION
The Student Trial Lawyers Association (STLA) was formed in the spring of 1984 by combining the student sections of the American Trial Lawyers Association (ATLA) and the Georgia Trial Lawyers Association at the College of Law. STLA provides students with an opportunity to participate in trial competitions on local, state and national levels. STLA is open to all students.

HONORS TODAY THAT MATTER TOMORROW.

DEANS' SCHOLARS

Ten major Atlanta law firms have made financial pledges to support 10 Deans' Scholars through law school. These scholarships are awarded to the top entering students based on merit. The award recipients are chosen by the College of Law Scholarship Committee.

THE GEORGIA CIVIL JUSTICE FOUNDATION SCHOLARSHIP

The Georgia Civil Justice Foundation has funded an endowed scholarship for an outstanding trial advocacy student. Income from this endowment allows the College of Law to award a scholarship every year.

THE TRAMMELL FOUNDATION OUTSTANDING TAX CLINIC STUDENT AWARD

This award is presented each year by the foundation to a student enrolled in the Tax Clinic at the College of Law. The award is presented to the student who provides the best service to the clinic based on interviewing skills, quality of research and ability to present a case to the Internal Revenue Service.

INNS OF COURT

Inns of Court were founded in response to criticism by leaders of the bench and bar about the quality of the trial bar in this country. Inns focus on the improvement of litigation skills through substantive programs and provide an opportunity for law students and younger lawyers to know senior experienced litigators. Georgia State College of Law established an Inn in 1990. The Inn is named for Logan E. Bleckley, who served on the Georgia Supreme Court from 1875 to 1880 and again from 1887 to 1894. A select group of third-year law students is chosen each year to be pupils at the Inn.

— PATRICIA E. TATE,
PARTNER, LONG, ALDRIDGE & NORMAN
"Powell, Goldstein, Frazer & Murphy was one of the first large Atlanta law firms to conduct on-campus interviews at GSU Law School and we have returned every year since. We have been uniformly impressed with the quality of the students produced by Georgia State, especially their intelligence, motivation and maturity. We have also been pleased by the practice-based nature of the curriculum and the breadth of opportunities for hands-on experience. GSU Law School does an excellent job of preparing students to practice law.

As an indication of the level of our continuing confidence in GSU Law School, four GSU law students participated in our 1993 summer program. No other law school placed more students in that program."

STUDENT SERVICES.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT

The Career Planning and Placement Office assists students and graduates in locating employment: part-time clerkships, summer associate positions, full-time associate and staff attorney positions, as well as contract attorney positions. The Career Planning Office presents an array of programs and workshops on topics ranging from legal practice areas to interviewing techniques. Students are assisted with resume and cover letter preparation, and are advised on the hiring patterns of the employers that interest them. Graduates use the services of the Career Planning Office when making lateral career moves.

Employers are invited to utilize the Career Planning Office in meeting all of their hiring needs. Assistance is available in locating part-time law clerks, summer associates, entry-level attorneys and experienced attorneys. There is no charge for the services of the Career Planning Office, which include:

JOB LISTING SERVICE

The Career Planning Office assists employers with immediate job openings by posting job announcements for students and/or graduates. Listings include part-time, summer, temporary and full-time opportunities. Applicants' résumés can be collected and forwarded on a selected date, or interested applicants may be requested to contact employers directly.

— TOM McNEILL,
POWELL, GOLDSTEIN, FRAZER & MURPHY
JOB LISTING HOT LINE

In addition to posting job listings, the Career Planning Office maintains a Job Listing Hot Line for graduate positions. Job seekers can telephone a recorded message and receive information on recently posted job openings. Use of the job hot line enables graduates to stay abreast of all job openings, and assists employers in effectively and efficiently locating experienced associates and staff attorneys.

ON-CAMPUS INTERVIEWS

The on-campus interview is an easy and efficient means of selecting associates, staff attorneys and summer clerks, and provides employers an opportunity to interview as many as 20 students per firm representative in one day. The Career Planning Office happily schedules on-campus interviews whenever classes are in session. Interviews may be scheduled in coordination with visits to Emory University, Mercer University or the University of Georgia, or in conjunction with local job fairs or continuing legal education programs. Because employers prescreen résumés and select students to be interviewed, the on-campus interview offers a "no-risk" recruiting option.

TEMPORARY PROJECT ASSISTANCE

The Career Planning Office maintains a list of students interested in taking on legal work on a project basis. If an "emergency law clerk" is needed, please call upon us for assistance.
JOB FAIRS

Georgia State University participates in a number of job fairs and collective interviewing programs each year, including:

- Southeastern Minority Job Fair (Atlanta, Ga.)
- Southeastern Public Interest Job Fair (Atlanta, Ga.)
- NALP/NAPIL Public Service Careers Fair (Washington, D.C.)
- Spring Four-in-One Recruiting Conference (Atlanta, Ga.)
- Atlanta Bar Association Minority Clerkship Program (Atlanta, Ga.)
- Coastal Legal Recruiting Conference (Savannah, Ga.)
- North Georgia Legal Recruiting Conference (Rome, Ga.)
- National Patent Law Recruiting Conference (Chicago, Ill.)
- SciLawSM Job Fair (Orlando, Fla.)

These job fairs give the employer an opportunity to interview students from several law schools at one time. For information about these job fairs, please call the Career Planning Office.

NONDISCRIMINATION POLICY

The College of Law Career Planning Office is committed to a policy against discrimination in employment based on age, gender, race, color, national origin, sexual orientation, religion, handicap and/or veteran status. The services of the Career Planning Office are available only to those employers whose practices are in agreement with this policy.

The College of Law is a member of the National Association for Law Placement, and adheres to the NALP Principles and Standards for law placement and recruitment activities. SOUTHEASTERN BANKRUPTCY LAW INSTITUTE VISITING PROFESSOR

In 1990-91 an initial grant from the Southeastern Bankruptcy Law Institute (SBLI) began an endowment fund to support an annual visit by a distinguished bankruptcy expert. The first visitor was Professor Frank R. Kennedy, the Thomas M. Cookey Professor of Law, Emeritus, at the University of Michigan. Professor Kennedy visited Georgia State College of Law, participated in classes during the 1992 spring semester, advised faculty members on research and made presentations to professional groups. The 1993 spring semester SBLI visitor was Professor David Gray Carlson of Yeshiva University's Cardozo Law School. He participated in a Tax and Bankruptcy seminar, made faculty presentations and advised faculty on pending research projects. He also took part in discussions with the SBLI Board and advised Bar Conferences of the Northern and Southern District of Georgia on the problems inherent in single-asset bankruptcies.
