LETTER FROM THE DEAN

August 19, 1992

I have just had the pleasure of participating in our Orientation program for our first-year full-time and part-time students. During my academic career, I have always found the summer weeks comparatively muted in tone, and I welcome the energy and excitement that our new and returning students bring as the fall semester begins.

The beginning of this school year will be an extraordinary one because we will be celebrating this College's Tenth Anniversary. You should already have received information about the picnic that is scheduled for Sunday, August 30 from 3-8 P.M.. The entire College community, including students, graduates, faculty and staff have been invited, and I hope that you and your families will be able to join us for that event. I will be arriving at about 5:30 P.M., because the University's summer Commencement also occurs that afternoon, and the College has some brand-new graduates at that occasion. We congratulate them on their success!

I also want to take this opportunity to introduce our new full-time faculty member to you. Professor Stephen J. Wermiel received his law degree from American University in 1982 and has had a distinguished career with the Wall Street Journal, covering the U.S. Supreme Court's processes. Last year he was a Visiting Professor at William and Mary's School of Law. This year he will teach in the fields of constitutional, media, and education law. Steve is also retired U.S. Supreme Court Justice William Brennan's official biographer, and he will complete work on that book here. We are very pleased that he decided to join our faculty.

This fall we are also able to add our first live-client educational experience to our curriculum. Such clinics are very expensive components of an academic program, because the students who are involved need intensive, high-quality supervision. Thanks to the generosity of the Mark and Evelyn Trammell Foundation, which has provided essential supplemental operating funds, we are opening a Tax Law Clinic. Professor Ron Blasi created and will direct the

SBA PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

I would first like to take this opportunity to welcome all incoming first year and returning second and third years back to GSU College of Law. As most of you know this year the law school is celebrating its Tenth Anniversary, and therefore there are many exciting activities planned throughout the year. Just one highlight of the coming celebration will be Justice Sandra Day O'Connor's appearance at the Henry J. Miller Lecture series on October 2nd.

This year the SBA is committed to insuring that you, the students here at GSU College of Law, are always well informed of all activities taking place throughout the course of the semester. For your benefit we have placed a calendar outside the SBA office which both the administration and law school organizations can use to schedule activities. This calendar will then in turn be published monthly in "The Docket." Also, if at any time you would like to publish something about your organization in "The Docket" just drop off a copy on an IBM compatible disk for Keith Wood "The Docket" editor-in-chief at the SBA office.

In addition the SBA will continue furnishing a "used" books bookstore in the SBA office. If at any time you have textbooks which you would like to sell please bring them by the SBA office and we will be glad to sell them for you. Please attach an envelope with your name, mailbox number, and price to the front cover of the book and leave the rest up to us. You may purchase or drop off books at any time the SBA office is open; check the SBA door for a schedule of office hours.

For those of you who have gotten involved in "The Buddy System" as "buddies" I would like to thank you for making the program a resounding success. I would also like to assure all the First Years that if you have not received a "buddy" at this point you will shortly; so don't panic. If you are a Second or Third year student who is interested in helping out with this program please contact Lesli Seta or myself so that we can introduce you to an incoming First Year. This program requires no time and little, if any, money, so get involved and help the First Years prepare for that storm heading in their direction.

Clinic, which will provide assistance to taxpayers in post-audit disputes with the Internal Revenue Service. We believe that this training will be a very valuable addition to our spectrum of pre-existing offerings that develop litigation skills.

As you take advantage of the various programs that we offer, we know that your experience can seem unusually stressful. Georgia State University has a very highly-regarded Counseling Center, which includes a Learning Assistance Unit. Its services are FREE for GSU students, and include individual and small group assistance in study skills, reading effectiveness, test-taking, including reducing anxiety, and overcoming the fear of public speaking. I urge you to contact the Unit's staff at 651-2219 before any accumulating problems become overwhelming.

Finally, we are deeply honored by the fact that U.S. Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor has agreed to deliver our fall Henry J. Miller Lecture as the final event in our Tenth Anniversary Celebration. Her lecture will occur on Friday, October 2 at 2:30 P.M. in the GSU Gymnasium, across Decatur Street from the College of Law. Justice O'Connor's visit is being coordinated by Professor Mary Radford, who served as a Judicial Fellow for the U.S. Supreme Court during 1990-91. Please note the date on your calendars; further details about Justice O'Connor's schedule will be forthcoming as they become final.

I hope that this academic year proves to be healthy, challenging and satisfying for each of you.

Marjorie L. Girth, Dean

Another program we will be initiating this year is the Court Clerk Academic Advisory Committee. The goal of this program is to serve as a facilitator of information between the administration and the students. Starting this week there will be a box marked "The Court Clerk" located outside the SBA door, if at any time you have a problem, issue, or concern that you would like to see addressed simply write it down on a sheet of paper and drop it off in the box. Based on the response to this program we will then investigate your issue and publish the answer in an issue of "The Docket" so that all students will have the benefit of your question.

I look forward to meeting and seeing all of you this year. If at any time I can be of assistance to you please feel free to contact me. Have a great and successful year!

Sincerely,
H. Alan Rosenberg

From the Editors

The goal of the S.B.A. in publishing this newsletter is to make it the voice of the students. To that end, we invite you to submit for publication anything you wish to share with your fellow students. We will publish editorials, letters to the editor, cartoons and caricatures, as well as other items of interest.

If you have a question, comment or something for publication, send it to Keith Wood at Box 245, or leave it with the S.B.A. office. If your article is longer than a half page please submit it on disk in WordPerfect format. Be sure that you put your name on the disk so that we can return it to you, or come by the S.B.A. office during office hours and the representative will copy it onto the computer. We cannot accept anonymous items. However, you may request anonymous publication.

Publication Guidelines

1. Items must be submitted by the 25th of each month in order to be included in the newsletter for the following month.
2. Send items to Boxes 190 or 245, or leave them at the SBA office.
3. Long items must be submitted on disk in WordPerfect format. Put your name on the disk.
4. We cannot accept anonymous items; however, you may request anonymous publication.

WANTED!!!

Cartoonists to publish caricatures and/or cartoons in THE DOCKET.

Anecdotes for the our Hearsay column.
Your Letters and comments for publication on our Editorial Page.

Notes from the Assistant Dean

Welcome to our incoming students, who met together for Orientation the week of August 17th. We hope you settle comfortably into the routine of the College. Thanks to Lesli Seta, by the way, for organizing the "Buddy System" that gives new students an experienced, personal contact for help in de-mystifying the intricacies of your early Law School career.

Check your mailboxes--A copy of the Honor Code has been placed in all boxes, along with a form stating you have read the code. Please fill out and return this form to the 3rd floor receptionist by September 8.

Bulletin Boards and The Docket are the main lines of communication between the College and its students. Although at times it may seem that posting notices is a random thing, each board has been assigned a specific area of information. Announcements posted on walls or glass are removed by Administrative Services staff--taping paper to the walls damages the paint and leaves difficult-to-remove glue on the glass. Attaching notices to classroom doors should also be avoided. If we all work together to see that notices are posted in the correct areas, we also keep our facility looking sharp. Push pins are available in the 3rd floor reception area.

The following list is a guide to help you locate posted information:

General Announcements: General announcement boards are free posting areas for all students and student organizations. Announcements for organization meetings, parties, special speakers, fund raisers, or other events should be posted on these boards located by the door in rooms 100, 140, 170, 230, 330 in addition to lobby areas.

Academic Notices: All academic notices and requirements for Law Students are posted on the board outside the Student Affairs office. No other materials should be posted on this board.

Class Assignments: The large bulletin board located next to the Student Affairs area on the 3rd Floor is the only place in the College that class assignments are posted. Students should check this periodically for any new assignments.

Externships and Lawyer Skills Development Program: Located next to the Assignment Board by the glass doors.

Scholarships and Writing Competitions: Posted at the extreme end of the Class Assignment Board at the end of the hallway.

Student Organizations: Bulletin boards are adjacent to their offices, and are shared boards.

Class Cancellation Notices: Posted as follows: Main Directory (ground floor lobby); Student Affairs bulletin board (3rd floor); Assignment Board under the class heading (3rd floor); Class room where the class would have been held; Library general announcement board; and 3rd floor reception area.

Class Relocation Notices: Posted on the doors of the classrooms where the changes are occurring.

A Curriculum Advisement Workshop is scheduled for upper level students on Wednesday, November 4--once at noon in Room 170 and again at 5:00 in Room 405. Before attending you may want to pick up copies of the updated College of Law Curriculum Handbook, available at the 3rd floor reception desk.

Student organizations wishing to make Room Reservations for meetings or hosting guest speakers should go to the 4th floor receptionist and fill out the room reservation form there. Your room will be temporarily assigned, and the form will be sent to Student Affairs for approval. Once approved, the person requesting the room will receive a copy of the form in their mail box and the 4th floor receptionist is given a copy so that the room can be permanently reserved for you. The cards by the door of the room are valid only for class assignments; faculty, staff, and other students of the College as well as other parts of the University may have reserved the room for meetings and functions of their own.

Have you met the Student Affairs staff yet? Ade Moreau, Receptionist, can give you any academic form you may need to complete. In the area of Admissions, Cheryl Jackson (Director) is assisted by Stan Hollis (Admissions Counsellor) and Marjie Hudson (Administrative Secretary). Charles Gilbreath (Records Director) and Tricia Rackliffe (Administrative Specialist) handle all student records functions. Beth Brown (Director) has a new assistant in Career Planning and Placement, Colleen Mattingly, and in my office Nancy Claiborne (Administrative Coordinator) can assist you with making appointments or seeing that you are put in touch with the right person if you aren't sure who to contact.

Let us assist you. If we don't have all the answers, we will try to find them for you.

Jacqueline A. St. Germain
Assistant Dean/Student Affairs

COMPUTER LAB

The Computer Lab for law students is located in the Law Library (room 113). The Lab contains:

- 12 personal computers
- 2 HP laserjet printers
- 3 Westlaw terminals with attached printers
- 1 Westlaw stand-alone printer
- 3 Lexis terminals with attached printers
- 1 Lexis stand-alone printer

All of the PCs have a 5.25 (DD) diskette drive and the "Conversion Station" has both 5.25 and 3.5 high density disk drives. Students must use their own floppy disks to use WordPerfect. The PCs are connected to the HP laserjet printers which provide letter quality printing at no cost to law students.

Library staff support for the Computer Lab is provided by Nancy Deel, Reference Librarian/Computer Coordinator and Phil Core, student assistant in charge of computer support for the Law Library. The Microform Room attendant, Julie, also assists the users of the Lab.

New Computer Lab Password

The Computer Lab is restricted to law students only. All applications in the Lab are password protected. Law students may obtain the password upon presentation of their current GSU ID. The Computer Lab Manual contains all the policies and rules of the Lab and is distributed with the password.

LAW LIBRARY OFFERS FREE COMPUTER CLASSES!

To help law students get started using the Computer Lab, two short courses will be taught over the next few weeks in the Lab. The schedule of classes and sign-up sheets are located in the Library at the Circulation Desk. The classes can accommodate 10 people per session.

INTRODUCTION TO COMPUTER LAB: This a half hour session covers the equipment of the Lab, the menu on the computers, formatting floppy diskettes, and the "Do's and Don'ts" of Computer Lab policy. For students who have limited experience with computers.

INTRODUCTION TO WORDPERFECT 5.1 (word processing): This 1-1/2 hour class will cover the bare-bone basics of creating, editing, and printing text documents. For students who have little or no experience with WordPerfect. Prerequisite for this class is the Introduction to Computer Lab or previous experience with personal computers.

Note: The class schedule pairs the two courses so that students can take them back to back in two hours.

Computer Questionnaire

The Law Library needs input from students on computer use. Comments and suggestions will be used to plan improvements for the Computer Lab. Please fill out a questionnaire available at the Reference Desk and return it to the Circulation Desk.

Westlaw and Lexis printers

Policy Announcement:

Library policy prohibits offline printing of material from Westlaw and Lexis which is available in the library collection. The offline print function should be used for cite lists, slip opinions, and other material which is not available in the library.

Lexis: Our Lexis stand-alone printer is up and running. Choose option #2 on the Print Menu to send prints to this printer.

Westlaw: Offline prints from Westlaw may be sent to the printer by choosing the STP or NOW destination codes as indicated on the Print Menu.

Westlaw and Lexis Training

Initial training for first-year law students will be conducted in January. Individual passwords for the services will be distributed during this mandatory training. More information about training will be announced in the RWA classes. Advanced training is available for both services. A monthly schedule of Westlaw classes is kept at the Reference Desk. For more information or to make reservations, please call the local offices.

Westlaw: 881-0454

Lexis: 577-1779

Westlaw and Lexis passwords and software

Westlaw and Lexis passwords issued last year will be reactivated for the Fall term. Software for home access is available at the Circulation Desk. If you have any technical questions, please direct them to customer service:

Westlaw: 1-800-westlaw

Lexis: 1-800-543-6862

Protect Home Computers Against Viruses

To prevent infections in home computers, the Law Library will provide law students with a public domain anti-virus software package free of charge. The package is called F-PROT; it is highly reputable and superior in many respects to costly commercial software. F-PROT consists of a TSR which intercepts viruses prior to their activation, a virus scanner which detects and kills existing infections, and a documentation file which is easy to comprehend. To get a copy of F-PROT, bring a formatted floppy disk with your name on it to the circulation desk. Turn around time is about 24 hours.

A GUIDE TO GSU COLLEGE OF LAW STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

For those students who have an interest in the various organizations here at the College of Law, we have provided the following list along with a brief description of the group. If you have a group which is not listed please let the editors of this newsletter know and we will prepare something for the upcoming issues.

Please note that these groups are in no particular order of notoriety or preference. We will show no preference towards any group.

GEORGIA STATE UNIVERSITY PUBLIC INTEREST LAW ASSOCIATION (GSUPIL)

Public interest law basically includes legal representation of interests that have been historically unrepresented or underrepresented: civil rights, poverty law, the rights of minorities, the disabled, children, AIDS patients, the mentally ill, the elderly and others.

GSUPIL was chartered in the spring of 1990. The Association is committed to increasing student awareness about field of law in the public interest, providing opportunities for students to work on public interest law projects, and supporting the local public interest law community. Membership is open to any GSU College of Law student. For more information about GSU Public Interest Law Association, contact: Melissa Pershing, Box # 598.

PHI ALPHA DELTA LAW FRATERNITY INTERNATIONAL

We are looking for new members who wish to achieve a balance of academic, social, and extra-curricular activities. We offer outlines, speakers, and general advice to all law students. Put in as much time to PAD as you wish; it is up to you. Look for postings and announcements about meetings for more information or contact David Green or Greg Esslinger at 378-6091, or Nonny Spotts, Michelle Gozansky or Melinda Carithers through their on-campus mailboxes.

DELTA THETA PHI FRATERNITY

Delta Theta Phi welcomes all new 1Ls to Georgia State University College of Law.

If you have not picked one up yet, be on the look out for the Delta Theta Phi "First Year Primer" to aid you in your approach to law school at GSU.

In the future, watch for notices about our meetings and study programs as we look forward to meeting you.

ASSOCIATION OF WOMEN LAW STUDENTS

AWLS is affiliated with the Georgia Association of Women Lawyers and the National Association of Women Lawyers. Membership in AWLS is open to everyone in the law school community. Although AWLS is comprised primarily of women and directed mainly to the concerns of women, the association also works to provide a forum for issues surrounding age, parenting and discrimination in the legal profession. These topics concern a broad spectrum of today's students-women, men, parents, older students and minorities. Our programs include sponsoring local lawyers, visiting scholars and faculty members to discuss timely topics with law students and members of the legal profession.

Dues are $5 a year. AWLS also sells t-shirts for $12. Membership dues plus one t-shirt are $15. Monies raised from dues and t-shirt sales will be used to assist a community-based project that reaches out to women.

Look for announcements of the first meeting in September.

LESBIAN AND GAY LAW STUDENT ASSOCIATION

LGLSA is a social, support and educational group in the law school created by and for gay and lesbian students. We were chartered to do three things:

1) Provide a supportive environment for lesbian and gay law students at GSU, encouraging personal as well as academic development; 2) Foster a positive educational environment in the law school by providing the student body, faculty and staff with opportunities to increase their awareness and understanding of the lesbian and gay community, and 3) Build and maintain relationships with gay and gay-sensitive employers, providing a network both for students seeking employment in a positive environment and for employers seeking gay and lesbian students.

Law school can be a frustrating and alienating experience, especially for 1Ls. LGLSA encourages all students to get involved with student organizations. It's a great way to meet people, and expand learning beyond the casebooks.

ACTIVATING AWARENESS FOR CHOICE AND EQUALITY

AACE brings information on contemporary issues to GSU students in order to inspire thoughtful consideration and debate. We provide a way for students to learn about issues and pursue special interests. Members of AACE have the opportunity for meaningful contact with faculty and other students within the law school. AACE also offers the chance to make contact with members of the legal community and with experts in various fields.

AACE's agenda is shaped by the interests of our individual members. Any member may suggest a project and take charge of the event, with help and support from the rest of the group. You can be a vital part of the most active student group at GSU.

We hope you will join AACE. Please watch for posted announcements of AACE meetings and events.

ENVIRONMENTAL LAW SOCIETY

Welcome to school or back to school! We are looking forward to a successful year for the Environmental Law Society! Our first "brown bag lunch" meeting will be on Thursday, August 27, 1992 at 12:15 in room 100. Bring your lunch and your ideas so we can discuss the goals for the upcoming year. If you have any questions about our organization, contact: Sarah L. Inderbitzin at 498-5470 or mailbox #99.

INTERNATIONAL AND COMPARATIVE LAW SOCIETY (ICLS)

The International and Comparative Law Society is the organization within the law school framework of student groups which participates in furthering international business studies and international legal exposure. The organization attempts to expose students to international legal concepts and to provide a forum for students to meet members of the local and national legal community who are actively involved in the practice of international law. To accomplish this, the organization hosts a series of guest lectures throughout the school year by members of the legal community on timely legal issues. In the spring semester, the organization conducts tryouts with faculty advisors and selects a moot court team to participate in the International Jessup Moot Court Competition. Membership in the organization is unrestricted.

NATIONAL LAWYER'S GUILD

Anyone interested in joining the GSU student chapter of the National Lawyer's Guild, an organization dedicated to aiding and advocating for the rights of the minorities and other oppressed peoples, can contact Deborah Bedsole by dropping a note in her box, #13. The Guild will be holding its first meeting within a few weeks. Notices will be posted.

THE FEDERALIST SOCIETY

The Federalist Society is an umbrella group embracing conservative/libertarian ideologies. We strive to encourage on-campus debate and to provide intellectual balance. Throughout this year, we will sponsor Brown-Bag lunches with speakers on a variety of topics. Also, we hope to co-sponsor debates with some of the other student organizations. Please accept this as your personal invitation to join us at our first meeting to learn more about what we will be doing throughout the year. The date and time of the meeting will be posted throughout the school and announcements will be made in your classes.

The first scheduled program for the Fall is a luncheon at a time and place to be announced on September 30th with the keynote speaker to be Kenneth Starr, the United States Solicitor General. If you are interested in attending, please contact David White (Box 514) or Scott Stevenson (Box 69). Also, our first Brown-Bag lunch will probably be in early October. If you happen to have any suggestions, or better yet, if you have any connections with some hotshot who might provide a thoughtful speech, contact the above-mentioned names. Take care and have a great fall semester.

CHRISTIAN LEGAL SOCIETY

The Christian Legal Society provides balance and stability during your law school years. CLS sponsors speakers and lively discussions of today's hottest topics. CLS provides a means to learn about merging faith and the practice of law. The national organization provides super periodicals as well as a national student newsletter. Come by and see what we are all about. Meeting times will be posted soon. For more information contact John O'Brien (351-0664) or Johnny Herbert (389-8769).

JEWISH LAW STUDENT ASSOCIATION

Jewish Law Student Association (JLSA) is an organization of law students, faculty, and alumni who share an interest in Jewish legal issues and socio-political concerns, and in meeting the needs and interests of Jewish law students at GSU. The purpose of the association is to serve as a forum in which these needs and interests can be expressed. The quality of our activities is a function of the interests expressed by our members. Last year, our activities focused on structural development of the organization, e.g., rewriting the charter, and social activities, e.g., brunch at a deli with our faculty sponsor.

This year, our first activity was a BBQ for first years at the home of one of our members. During the rest of the year, we will seek speakers to invite to GSU that can talk about topics that may be of interest to Jewish students or the law school at large, or both. Dues are $5 a year for students. Anyone interested in acquiring a more detailed description of the organization's mission is welcome to read the charter or ask questions at a scheduled meeting. Meetings will be announced by posters on the bulletin-boards.

BLACK LAW STUDENTS ASSOCIATION

The Black Law Students Association (BLSA) provides support and academic enrichment. Membership is open to any College of Law student. This year our activities will include Brown Bag luncheons, survival skills workshops, and a Minority Bar Reception.

For membership information interested students may contact any BLSA executive committee member, or stop by the BLSA office on the second floor. Annual dues are $30.00 and membership includes a T-shirt.

STUDENT TRIAL LAWYERS ASSOCIATION

The GSU Trial Teams participated in three competitions during last year, and did extremely well in all. As a result of those performances, GSU has been invited to the Tournament of the Champions, which will be held in Houston, Texas, October 14-17, 1992. This invitation was extended to the top sixteen teams in the country. In September, try-outs will be held for all third year students who would like to compete in this special event. Dates and times will soon be posted.

Most recently, the GSU Trial Team won the 1992 YLS Intrastate Mock Trial competition, which was held in Gwinnett County in April of 1992. This competition is sponsored annually by the Younger Lawyers Section of the State Bar of Georgia. Law schools from the University of Georgia, Mercer and Georgia State participated, with each school fielding two teams. Ray Ragland, Jeff Walker and Sheila Chrzan, coached by Tom Jones, walked away with the honors. Jeff Walker was also selected as Best Advocate during the competition.

The GSU STLA is definitely on the move, and this year will see participation in even more competitions. Even if you are not interested in participating on one of the competition teams, give serious thought to joining the organization. Membership in the STLA is beneficial and fun! (And what a way to really learn Evidence!)

Please note that this newsletter will publish notice from the various clubs throughout the year. However, in order to do this we will need the information by the 25th of each month. See the Publication Guidelines on Page 2 for more on the requirements for publication.

CLUELESS

The Column for First Year Law Students

By Pat Buonodono

Things you should know about...
But probably don't.

The law school offers Academic Assistance in all the basic substantive classes. Take advantage of this!!! You may not need it, or you may think you won't need it, but you have nothing to lose and everything to gain by attending. Specially recommended (if he's still teaching it): Rob Buck for Crandell's Contracts course. He has the Crandellian Method down and will be of great assistance in helping you understand what is expected of you.

If you can type as fast as (or faster than) you can write, type your exams! Rumor has it that professors prefer to read typewritten answers, and you can get more information onto the paper in less time. Typing your exams requires no special dispensation, just show up at exam time with a no-memory-whatsoever typewriter. Don't forget extra ribbons/correction ribbons, just in case.

Get a budget card for the parking decks and save 25 cents every time you park. It adds up.

Interested (later) in Law Review and Moot Court? Law Review invites 14 students to join based upon academic standing; 12 more students are allowed to "write on" based upon a competition that is open to the top 50% of the class only. To be invited onto the Moot Court team, you must take Appellate Advocacy in your second year. In order to be allowed to take Appellate Advocacy, you must make at least a 73 in RWA.

Food for Thought: GSU says (for financial aid purposes) that it costs $12,690 per school year to go to law school and "live." This figure is for a student who is married and has two children. After tuition and books, this leaves roughly $9,000 on which to live. Where in Atlanta can a family of four live for nine months on $9,000?

EDITORIAL PAGE

The whole point of having a student newsletter is in order to allow the students to know what is going on around the school and to be able to voice any views that they may have. The editors would like to see this newsletter expand beyond the bounds of merely reporting events around the law school. Several ideas that have been voiced by readers are student and faculty profiles and the Hearsay Column which was in last year's Docket. However, in order to have information for the Hearsay column, we need students' input.

In addition to the above mentioned items the editors would also like to include letters from the students and faculty expressing their views on various topics. The guidelines for these letters are that they (1) must be in good taste and (2) must be fairly short and to the point. While we know several people that this will be difficult for, we ask that you make your best attempt. Note that we will not edit opinions which we may feel are incorrect or ridiculous, but, rather, will print as many letters as possible.

In addition to letters and other items, if you know of a particularly good quote, legal or otherwise, please let us know so that we may print it. Hopefully this will add an air of distinction to this newsletter. We have taken the liberty of giving an example of one that is appropriate for the those poor souls who are just now beginning their law school careers.

For now that is all we will say and until next month we wish all of you the best luck possible.

Quote for the month:

Let us be thankful for the fools. But for them the rest of us could not succeed.

SCHOLARSHIP AND WRITING COMPETITION INFORMATION

The Georgia Association of Black Women Attorneys Scholarship Foundation is making three scholarships available to second and third year female law students, one for $1,000 and two for $500. Applications are available at the 3rd floor reception area, and must be postmarked by OCTOBER 19, 1992 to be considered.

To remind you: the Mendes Hershman Student Writing Contest deadline is October 30, 1992. Information and applications are also available at the 3rd floor reception area.
