The academic regalia worn by today’s participants is a colorful relic dating back to the Middle Ages, when education was a function of religious organizations. The monk’s habit and the cowl worn over their heads were predecessors of the modern black gowns and hoods. The mortarboard cap developed from the skull caps worn by medieval churchmen.

At the end of the nineteenth century American universities standardized academic dress. Law degree candidates wear the traditional black gown with full, round sleeves, velvet facings on the front, and velvet bars on the sleeves. On the hood the purple velvet trimming designates the field of law and the silver-gray lining with crimson chevron symbolizes Georgia State University.

The hooding of law degree candidates at the College of Law is a ritual that precedes the formal conferral of the law degree, which occurs at Georgia State University’s Commencement ceremonies.

Circumstances require that the list of candidates for graduation be furnished to the printer several weeks prior to commencement. It is possible that one or more candidates listed herein may have been unable to complete all requirements for the degree. Inability to remove a name from the list does not commit the University to grant the diploma to a person thus listed. The official list is maintained in the Office of the Registrar.
