Nadine Strossen

In January 1991, Nadine Strossen, professor of law at New York Law School, was elected president of the American Civil Liberties Union, which has 6,000 cases pending in 51 affiliates nationwide. Strossen is both the youngest president of the ACLU and the first woman selected for the top position.

Strossen clerked for the Minnesota Supreme Court and later practiced law at private firms in Minneapolis and New York. In 1984 she became supervising attorney of the Civil Rights Clinic and associate professor of clinical law at NYU School of Law. In 1991, the National Law Journal included her in its special section, "Profiles in Power: The 100 Most Influential Lawyers in America."

Strossen has given numerous lectures and speeches across the United States and around the world. Television shows on which she has appeared include "Crossfire," "Larry King Live," "The MacNeil-Lehrer News Hour," "Nightline," "CBS Sunday Morning with Charles Kuralt," and "The Today Show." Her writings have been published in many law reviews including Cornell Law Review, Duke Law Journal, Harvard Civil Rights-Civil Liberties Law Review, NYU Law Review and Yale Journal of Law and Feminism. Strossen has also served on the boards of directors of many human rights organizations.

The College of Law
Georgia State University

The Georgia State University College of Law was founded in 1982 by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia. On August 8, 1990, the American Bar Association granted full accreditation to the College of Law. The college provides both full-time and part-time programs, and now has over 1,200 graduates. It continues to earn recognition as one of the leading law schools in the Southeast.

The Henry J. Miller
Distinguished Lecture Series

The Henry J. Miller Distinguished Lecture Series is supported by the Loridans Foundation. The series is named for Henry J. Miller, a partner in the law firm of Alston & Bird for more than 50 years and past president of the Loridans Foundation.

Henry J. Miller

Henry J. Miller is a magna cum laude graduate of Emory University and a 1929 graduate of the Harvard University Law School.

Miller has served his profession with distinction as a member of the American Law Institute and the American Judicature Society and as a Fellow of the American College of Probate Counsel. He was chair of the Georgia State Board of Bar Examiners from 1966 to 1970 and from 1973 to 1976, was one of the three-member committee that reviews amicus briefs for the American Bar Association. In 1980 he was designated Amicus Curiae of the Supreme Court of Georgia. In 1977-78 he served as a visiting professor at the Emory University School of Law.
