Blog Comment Policy

Thanks for being a member of Georgia State University College of Law Library's online community. The Law Library welcomes your contributions to its Facebook Page (e.g. comments, photo tagging, wall posts, etc.). Your views and opinions are what make the Law Library such an amazing place! However, please note that community-contributed content on the Page is the opinion of the specific author and does not represent the views, opinions, or policies of the Law Library, the College of Law, or Georgia State University.

The Law Library abides by Facebook's Statement of Rights and Responsibilities, to the extent permitted by applicable law, and the University asks its Facebook Fans to do the same. In particular, please do not "post unauthorized commercial solicitations (such as spam)"; "bully, intimidate, or harass any user"; "post content that is hateful, threatening, pornographic, or that contains nudity or graphic or gratuitous violence"; or "do anything unlawful, misleading, malicious, or discriminatory" on the Law Library's Facebook Page.

Georgia State University reserves the right, but is not obligated, to remove comments that contain commercial solicitations; are factually erroneous/libelous; are wildly off-topic; that cannot be translated into English by Google Translate or other free online translation software; or that otherwise violate Facebook's Statement of Rights and Responsibilities. Facebook encourages all users to utilize the "Report" links when they find abusive content.

Additionally, for current University faculty, staff, and students, please remember that your use of the Law Library's Facebook Page may be subject to the University's Student Code of Conduct and Administrative Policies and Procedures and Information Systems Use Policies, as may be applicable.

Georgia State University College of Law Library thanks you in advance for your contributions to the Law Library's Facebook Page, and for your help in creating a safe and energetic place for supporters of the Law Library to interact.
