Overview

Overview

In February of 2005, a 9-year old Florida child by the name of Jessica Lungsford was abducted from her home, raped, then buried alive by John E. Couey. At the time, Couey was a convicted sex offender living nearby to the child's residence. Couey later confessed to kidnapping and killing the girl and burying her in a shallow grave. In the twelve months that followed, tragic news of national headline-grabbing cases of crimes against children spread across the country.

In the recent months, no single category of criminal has received more media attention than sex offenders. Recent headlines about the particularly heinous of rape and murder of children have led legislatures across the country to propose tougher sex offender laws that require sex offender registration, restrict where sex offenders can live, and attempt to address increasing concerns about public safety.

The increased public concern over the release of convicted sex offenders has led to the enactment of statutes all over the nation with respect to the criminal prosecution of sex offenders, mandatory registration of offenders ,and community notification.

Conclusion

As the laws of the Nation, and States, become more restrictive for Sex Offenders and those that have committed crimes against children, the case law and available resources will broaden and develop into a tremendous doctrine of how the government can, and can not impede the rights of the individual. Developments in this area of the law change drastically, daily. Comprehensive and up to date research will be necessary to gain an understanding of this developing aspect of the law.

Scope

This website has been prepared to provide a researcher "starting point" or primer for understanding the Ga. Acts 2006, no. 571 (Georgia House Bill 1059), also called the "Georgia Sex Offender Act", and the "Georgia Child Protection Act", that went into effect on July 1, 2006, and the current Constitutional challenges that have been raised in Federal and State Court.

In addition, this guide will also provide the reader with an overview of Federal and State enacted Sex Offender laws enacted throughout the United States.

GEORGIA SEX OFFENDER ACT - PRIMARY SOURCES

Overview

NOTE: The reader is advised to review the appropriate statutory or regulatory authority to ascertain the current status of all statutes discussed herein.

Effective July 1, 2006, Ga. Acts 2006, no 571 (Georgia House Bill 1059) changes provisions throughout the Official Code of Georgia regarding criminal charges and punishment for sexual offenses. The Bill passed the Georgia State House of Representatives in February of 2006 with a vote of 144-27, and won final approval by the State Senate 52-1 in late March of 2006. Among the changes are:

- Increased mandatory minimum punishment for certain serious sexual offenses,
- Lessened punishment for certain sexual offenses committed by minors,
- New criminal laws involving the withholding of information concerning sexual offenders,
- Recognition of the State of Georgia State Sexual Offender Registry
- Provision of duties and responsibilities for Georgia sheriffs, Department of Corrections, Georgia Bureau of Investigation, and the Sexual Offender Registration Review Board.
- Increased restrictions on sex offender residence, employment, and loitering restrictions for sexual offenders, and requires sexually dangerous predators to wear electronic monitoring devices for the rest of their lives.
- Repeals provisions that relate to chemical castration.

Specifically, the Act:

- Amends O.C.G.A. § § 5-6-34, 5-7-1, 16-5-21, 16-5-40, 16-5-41, 16-5-110, 16-6-1, 16-6-2, 16-6-3, 16-6-4, 16-6-5, 16-6-5.1, 16-6-22, 16-6-22.1, 16-6-22.2, 17-6-1, 17-10-1, 17-10-6.1, 17-10-30, 35-3-30, 42-1-12, 42-1-13, 42-8-35, 42-8-60, 42-9-39,
- Enacts O.C.G.A. § § 16-6-25, 17-10-6.2, 42-1-14, and 42-1-15,
- Repeals O.C.G.A. § § 42-9-44.1 and 42-9-44.2, provisions that relate to chemical castration.

WHITAKER, ET AL v. PERDUE COMPLAINT FILED IN FEDERAL COURT AGAINST GEORGIA ACT 571 available at

- Plaintiffs: The Atlanta based Southern Center for Human Rights, on behalf of nine convicted sex offenders, files a lawsuit in the US District Court for the Northern District of Georgia.

Defendants: The named Defendants in the lawsuit include Governor Sonny Perdue, and Georgia Attorney General Thurman Baker.

- Claims: The lawsuit claims the provision of the new law banning convicted sex offenders from living within 1,000 feet of a school bus stop argued that it's virtually impossible for sex offenders to live anywhere in Georgia that doesn't violate the law, and the law unconstitutionally denies sex offenders due process under the law, infringes on their religious freedom, amounts to an illegal taking of their property and imposes cruel and unusual punishment.

[U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE BLOCKS ENFORCEMENT OF SCHOOL BUS PROVISION OF GEORGIA ACT 571 available at \[www.schr.org\]\(http://www.schr.org\) \(last visited Nov. 11, 2006\)](#)

- U.S. District Judge Clarence Cooper issues an order temporarily blocks State of Georgia officials from enforcing a provision of GA HOUSE BILL 1059 that bars sex offenders from living within 1,000 feet of school bus stops. Because of the vast number of school bus stops in the State of Georgia, enforcing this provision would amount to an unconstitutional banishment of citizens.

GEORGIA ACT 571 GOES INTO EFFECT available at

- Georgia's sex offender law, House Bill 1059, believed to be the nation's toughest, went in to effect on July 1st, 2006. The law imposes strict limits on where sex offenders may live, work or spend time. The law creates 1,000-foot buffer zones around school bus stops, churches, schools, child-care centers and other places where children congregate.

[U.S. DISTRICT JUDGE CERTIFIES SEX OFFENDERS AS A CLASS available at \[www.schr.org\]\(http://www.schr.org\) \(last visited Nov. 11, 2006\)](#)

- U.S. District Judge Clarence Cooper issues an order allowing the constitutional challenge of the law to proceed as a class action, and preliminary injunction that bars the State from enforcing the school bus stop provision is issued. Judge Cooper notes that over a TRO every time a school board or private school formally designates bus stops. He suggested one way to avoid that would be to certify sex offenders as a class.

NATIONAL SEX OFFENDER LAWS - PRIMARY SOURCES

FEDERAL STATUTES

Under the United States Code, the Jacob Wetterling Crimes Against Children and Sexually Violent Offender Registration Act requires all states to enact a program mandating that designated offenders register with state or local authorities (or risk losing 10% of its federal anti-crime funding). In 1996, President Clinton signed Megan's Law, as an amendment to the Jacob Wetterling Act, requiring community notification when sex offenders move into a neighborhood.
